Activity Report 2025

Introduction

The 2025 administration was particularly important for the development of the Bolivian Esports Federation. Through the work of the CNEB, the country's competitive ecosystem now has a de facto federation, meeting national requirements for purposes of representation as per article 66 of the Bolivian Civil Code. However, there are several challenges that cannot be addressed by the existing minimal level of representation the federation currently has.

By prioritizing the attainment of legal legitimacy across the national landscape, CNEB's objective is to secure a position whereby no parallel institutions may force dual representation in the international federative ecosystem. We recognize the right of all organizations and individuals to participate freely and be represented within the Bolivian Federation System. In light of this commitment, CNEB has aspired to avoid institutional confrontations that have taken place across sister federations both in the regions and globally in the past decade. Having started only in 2023, Bolivia has intense work to carry out to catch up with its regional peers. CNEB cannot allow itself to create a situation whereby mistakes carried out in the past by our older sister federations are committed in the country only now where there is significant work to carry out as is.

The challenges ahead can be summarized in three areas:

- Event calendars are not fixed and are communicated on short timelines due to internal diminished operational capacity and external short communication periods
- Financial constraints will be the greatest difficulty during the 2026–2030 administration period.
- Complex bureaucratic systems impact faster development of a legal entity at a national level

Financial Consolidation

A report detailing the expenses in 2025 has been shared with IESF. A total of $ 1,933.38 were necessary for the development of all 2025 activities. The report is currently missing donations from CNEB's Secretary General who is working on the development of 4 more departmental federations so the country can, according to law, work on the formation of a national body. This sheet will be updated at the earliest possible time to reflect more accurate numbers.

Lessons learned

- Per estimates, CNEB could function efficiently under austerity measures with an annual budget of $5,000-$10,000 depending on a year's tournament calendar and projected legal expansion, an important element in the present structure.
- Additional funding sources must be leveraged. These include but are not limited to donations, sponsorships, membership fees and monetization of streaming channels
- Several revenue generating options are limited by the status of the federation. Developing a solid league structure will be necessary as a pre-requisite for exploring revenue generating options through this angle

Organization of National Tournaments

The organization of national tournaments was carried out by different communities, with supervision from the CNEB presidency. Competitions were organized for Dota 2, MLBB Open and Women's, and eFootball.

Lessons Learned

- Implementation of RFPs (Requests for Proposals) to create an open call for communities is paramount
- A team must be dedicated solely to event organization. With the inclusion of Hadouken Dojo Gamer as our events arm, this should advance more flawlessly in the months to come
- Severe follow up is required for organizing communities to perform within standards

Challenges for the 2026 administration

- Growing the team is currently the biggest challenge for the federation. Unfortunately, the country's social fabric is not receptive to collaborative approaches to development of initiatives yet an aggressive social media campaign this year aims to deliver improved results
- Financial challenges will remain an important priority. While the current economic situation in the country seems to be improving, external factors may prove impactful to economic recovery. CNEB has decided to work under austerity measures for the time being while we continue to implement our growth strategy
- Despite lack of recruiting efforts in 2025, CNEB is prioritizing the expansion of the team this year to better develop all the goals it set out for itself

Participation in International Tournaments

Participation in international events included:

- IESF: National Qualifiers for MLBB Open and Female and Dota 2. Participated in RQ for Dota and MLBB Open. Qualified to MLBB WEC25
- BRICS Esports Championship 2025: Top 8 in the discipline of Tekken 8 in Russia
- Due to economic constraints, Bolivia was not able to participate in the 2025 Bolivarian Games in Ayacucho, Perú

Focus for the 2026 administration

- Develop the 2025-2027 strategy. Now the "2026-2028 Strategy", CNEB is committed to a year of growth and development. Objectives include:
    - Expand the team
    - Start Membership affiliation
    - Develop tools for tournament administration
    - Expand national following
